

Pass The Bows

How To Play:

The object of the game is to have teams race to pass bows from one end of the line to the other while holding hands.

Divide the group into teams of 6 to 10 people and have the teams line up side by side, either sitting or standing next to each other. At one end of the line place the six Christmas bows and at the other end have a table or stool where they can place the bows. Now with their left hand, have each player grab the right wrist of the person to their right. The teams must pass all the bows down to the one end and place them on the table or stool. When all 6 bows have been passed, the team players can start passing them back to the front of the line.

Note: If a bow falls, players must retrieve while still being connected and if the chain breaks all the bows currently being passed must move back to the beginning of the line.
